Introduction

These standing orders (SO) are based on those taken from the National Association of Local Council (NALC) model standing orders which reference new legislation introduced after 2020 when the last model standing orders were published.

How to use standing orders

Standing orders are the written rules of a local council and are essential to regulate the proceedings of a meeting. A council may also use standing orders to confirm or refer to various internal organisational and administrative arrangements. The standing orders of a council are not the same as the policies of a council but standing orders may refer to them.

Local councils operate within a wide statutory framework and these standing orders incorporate and reference many statutory requirements to which Allithwaite and Cartmel Parish Council (ACPC) are subject. It is not possible for these standing orders to contain or reference all the statutory or legal requirements which apply to ACPC, e.g. it is not practical for standing orders to document all obligations under data protection legislation. The statutory requirements to which ACPC is subject apply whether or not they are incorporated in these standing orders as these evolve on an ongoing basis but policy revisions should be captured as part of the annual SO review.
